The idea was to persuade states to forbid pharmacies to substitute any NTI drug with a cheaper generic duplicate unless it is approved by physician and patient.

Isn't someone who's woken up as a child in the middle of the night, feeling dysphoria, going, "Oh my god, I'm..."? However, the study did not address the issue in women without CHD.